JUBILANT BULL DOGS rushed to the Norris City High school gym floor last night after the Harrisburg High basketball squad defeated Carrier Mills 51 to 50 to win its first regional championship trophy in many years. Fans finally hoisted Player Ray Hassett so he could cut down one of the nets as a trophy. Principal H. J. Phelps attempted to have a formal presentation of the trophy to the Harrisburg squad, but it was practically impossible to clear the floor of the milling crowd. Finally a brief ceremony was held at the west end of the gym, and Mr. Phelps, principal of the Norris City school and tournament manager, is shown presenting the trophy to Coach John Dolson of Harrisburg. Register photographer caught the presentation just as it was being concluded.

Exhibition by Local Young People At Carrier Mills a Shameful Spectacle

(An Editorial)

There's a lot more to winning than coming out on top in the final score. Most everybody knows that but there are always a few who do not.

It is with utmost embarrassment that this editorial is written. Last night, after Harrisburg took a one-point victory over Carrier Mills in a game that could have gone either way, carloads of Harrisburg young people invaded Carrier Mills and proceeded to "rub it in."

It must have been a shameful spectacle. They sped through the streets, honking horns and shouting, and running stop signs. There was even profanity in some of the shouting.

And it didn't stop after a run or two through the town. They persisted in the exhibition and paid no heed to police. They had the upper hand, because they were there in big numbers and were in moving vehicles.

The mayor got out and tried to slow things up. He spent more than an hour in trying to quell the show of poor taste and judgment.

Isn't all this embarrassing to you people in Harrisburg who know how to conduct yourselves? We all know that the percentage up here who would stage such an asinine and stupid show of elation is small.

We also know that Carrier Mills has beaten Harrisburg on a number of occasions—and if you remember correctly by some pretty hefty scores some of the times. And we know that Carrier Mills fans in their elation did not try to take the town. Sure, you can go through a town honking and shouting your pleasure, but to just keep rubbing it in without regard to the law is something else.

As Mayor Freeman O'Keefe of Carrier Mills put it, "Carrier Mills and Harrisburg are tied too closely together—we have too many things in common—to have incidents like this one come along that could disrupt our good relations."

It couldn't have been said in better words.

Chief of Police Ross Lane said Goodman told him that Jackson had forced open the door and when he pointed his gun at Jackson, the intruder ran. Goodman fired a shot at the fleeing man.

Jackson was picked up later by city police.

Mr. Kihlmire is leaving Harrisburg, March 12, for a new assignment in the Forest Service regional office in Milwaukee.

Flunked First One Portland Mayor Asks for New Lie Detector Test on Bribe Charges

WASHINGTON (AP)—Embattled Mayor Terry D. Schrunk of Portland, Ore., hoped to take a lie detector test today in an effort to clear himself of charges he took a $500 bribe from a gambler.

He conceded he had been told he flunked a previous test on the same subject. But he wanted the new test anyway.

The Senate Rackets Committee sent Schrunk's testimony to the Justice Department to study for possible perjury after he testified Friday.

Committee Chairman John L. McClellan said it was "directly in conflict" with that of other witnesses.

The special committee is investigating an alleged hookup between officials of the AFL-CIO Teamsters Union, city officials and racketeers to take over vice operations in Portland.

Committee Counsel Robert F. Kennedy said he would try to arrange for the mayor's lie detector test today or Monday.

Schrunk, who was sheriff of Multnomah County for seven years before being elected mayor last year with the backing of the Teamsters Union, asked Kennedy to have the test administered by the FBI instead of the Secret Service. Schrunk said he "knew" the FBI and its methods.

Rainbow's Rexall Drug Store, Keltner Honored; Sybil Brown Receives $3,500

Flashbulbs from four or five cameras popped yesterday afternoon at Rainbow's Rexall drug store, where Mrs. Sybil L. Brown received her contest-winning check for $3,500 and the store and manager were honored by the Rexall company.

Mrs. Brown recently was revealed the Midwest winner of first prize in the Rexall Super-Plenamin contest. There were two other winners, one for the East and one for the West. All had their choice of a number of items including a Lincoln Premier, Ford Thunderbird, GE automatic kitchen installed, European tour, mink coat, or $3,500 cash.

Mrs. Brown chose the cash and received her check yesterday from Charles E. Denton, district manager of the Rexall Co. for the St. Louis area.

In addition, a bronze plaque and a mortar and pestle trophy were presented to the store and Bob Keltner, store manager, received a certificate of merit by Mr. Denton.

The store received the "Honor Store" plaque for establishing certain standards to which Rexall stores must conform.

A replica of a 16th century mortar and pestle cast in 1590 was presented the store as an annual award to outstanding member-druggists.

Mr. Keltner received the Rexall citation of merit in recognition of his "sincere enthusiasm and desire to serve" and "in acknowledgment of unusual initiative."

Eisenhower Signs Doctrine

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower today signed his middle east doctrine pledging the use of American troops, if necessary, to defend the oil-rich area from Communist aggression.

He called it "a further demonstration of the will of the American people to preserve peace and freedom in the world."

There was no elaborate ceremony for the historic occasion.

Mr. Eisenhower, seated at the desk in his office, signed his name to a resolution Congress approved overwhelmingly this week after two months of occasionally bitter debate over the exact wording.

As finally approved, it gave the President substantially what he requested:

—Congressional support to use U. S. troops if he feels it is necessary to resist a Communist attack.

—Authority to spend up to 200 million dollars in already appropriated funds to bolster Middle East economies and governments against Red-inspired subversion.

Israel to Force New Dispute Into the Open

By United Press

Western diplomats voiced fear today the Middle East dispute would erupt into new violence if Egypt attempts to block Israeli shipping from the Suez Canal.

The diplomats, before leaving for their homelands from United Nations headquarters, said there must be a quick and satisfactory solution to some of the Mideast's political problems to follow the "tactical" achievement of getting Israel out of Egypt.

Israeli foreign ministry sources said Thursday Israel intends to "force the Suez Canal dispute into the open" by sending the 3,500-ton ship Mars from Haifa en route to Burma through the canal as soon as it is cleared. That could touch off an explosion when the canal is clear for ships of that tonnage.

Shipment Steams Through
Egypt Friday opened the waterway to "all shipping" up to 500 tons providing they pay tolls directly to the Egyptian government.

Observers in Cairo were certain, however, this did not apply to Israeli ships which Egypt blocked prior to the invasion last October on the grounds a "state of war" exists between the two countries.

A dozen small ships steamed down the 101-mile waterway today, carefully skirting two major sunken vessels which the Egyptian government has not permitted the U. N. salvage fleet to work on. Until these wrecks are out larger vessels will not be able to use the canal.

Clearing Crews Ready
U. N. officials in Egypt waited expectantly today for word that they could start clearing them now that the U. N. Emergency Force has taken over the Gaza Strip and the Sharm El Sheikh areas from Israeli forces.

Egyptian officials expected U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld to arrive in Cairo next week for talks about a long-range settlement on the whole Middle East problem.

In Washington, U. S. officials said Egypt's apparent move to bar Israeli shipping violates at least two U. N. Security Council actions.

Washington officials also were concerned about the Egyptian announcement that Egypt would insist that it alone collect canal tolls.

The State Department pointed out that Egypt has not yet replied to a Western suggestion that a neutral agency collect the tolls, keeping half the money for canal maintenance and repairs and turning the other half over to Egypt.

In other Middle East developments:—The United Press learned in Washington the United States, Britain and France plan to turn down a phony propaganda Russian suggestion that the Big Four keep hands off the Middle East.

6th Fleet Stands By Earth Tremors Rock Greece; Thousands Homeless; Shake Athens

ATHENS, Greece (UP) — New earth tremors shook Greece today and the U. S. Sixth Fleet stood by off the coast to lend emergency aid if necessary.

The first series of quakes that hit the east coast area of central Greece Friday left thousands homeless and today's predawn tremors shook Athens itself.

So far only one fatality has been reported. Several persons were injured. But property damage was appalling. The government reported 3,470 homes damaged, almost 2,000 of them severely.

U. S. Ambassador George Allen contacted the government for detailed information and the Sixth Fleet gathering off Piraeus prepared to rush emergency aid to the stricken area if needed.

The Greek military commander in Tressaly was appointed relief commander. Government forces rushed tents, medical supplies and food stocks into the area.

Authorities said the relative mildness of the first shock in the quake triangle 200 miles northwest of Athens provided a warning and helped cut down the casualties.

It sent villagers rushing into the streets to huddle together in a driving rain.

Eleven minutes later a tremendous shock—the strongest ever to hit the Thessaly area — brought down houses and factories and temporarily drained the Apiganos River.

The shock that hit Athens this morning caused no damage but indicated the Thessaly area might have been hit again. There was no immediate report from that section.

Members of the First Methodist church enjoyed potluck fellowship dinners in Wesley center on Wednesday and Thursday nights of this week at 6 p. m.

After the bountiful dinners, the children viewed movies in the primary room while the adults enjoyed a program in the dining room.

On Wednesday night the Rev. W. L. Cummins, the pastor, returned thanks and gave the devotion. Then the junior choir sang, solo parts being taken by Sam Parker and Janet Gaskins. The audience applauded enthusiastically and an adult choir member remarked afterwards, "We see who are going to take our places."

Talk on Bells At Historical Society Meeting

The Saline County Historical society held its regular March meeting Tuesday in the club room of the Mitchell-Carnegie library.

President Louis Aaron read his committee appointments for the new year as follows: Membership, Mrs. D. F. Rumsey, chairman; Mrs. Geneva Altire, Mrs. Ila Choiser; program, John Foster, chairman, Paul Hatfield, Will Farley; museum, D. F. Rumsey, chairman, John Foster, E. B. Webster, G. O. Davenport; hospitality, Mrs. Ownly Furman, chairman; flower, Amelia Aaron, chairman.

The first part of the evening's program was given by ten boys and girls from Mr. Aaron's fifth grade room at Lincoln school, El Dorado. They demonstrated the slow and stately steps of the minut as used by the colonists of our early America. They showed how the quickened pace of steps of other dances followed. The group next danced four old folk dances, which they did in a charming and refreshing manner.

Talk By Mrs. Musgrave

Composing the group were Glenda Parson, Janice Graddy, Bonnie Dallas, Ann Rogers, Judy Gray, Jimmie Ashley, Jerry Doug Watson, David Charles Jones, Vincent Kaiser and Jimmie Tucker.

Mrs. J. A. Musgrave then spoke on "Historic Bells." She exhibited a part of her bell collection which began years ago with a small metallic bell of her mother's, and ranged upward in variety and interest until the most recently acquired one, a China doll bell. Mrs. Musgrave is a member of the American Bell Association, and she is thoroughly informed on her subject.

There were two or three of the teacher type bells, which were used to call school children to their classes, a fireman's bell, and another like bell used in the Philadelphia commissary department. Quite a number of the bells were of European and Asian origin. Mrs. Musgrave stated the oldest bells had been made by the Chinese. One of the most exquisite on display was made in France. Some of the bells came from Germany, Switzerland, India, Korea and China. She stated that most bells are made by hand, but that chimies are cast bells.

Tells of Old Bells

In Europe the noted bell makers are families who have followed this occupation for many years, possibly centuries, in a few cases. Some of the bells on exhibit, the Chinese tea bells, the Sarna bells and the richly and ornately carved bells, were found interesting. The lovely tinkling tones of many of the bells were very musical.

Mrs. Musgrave mentioned that the world's largest bell, weighing more than 2000 tons hangs in the Russian Kremlin. The next largest is in Kipling's Mandalay. The Mount City fire bell, the McKendree college bell, the Presbyterian church bells at Vandalia and at Shawneetown, were among those mentioned by her as being rather old in this area.

Mrs. Musgrave stated that copper and tin were the best metals used in the making of bells and would produce the clearest bell-line tones. One bell from Okinawa was made entirely of wood, and very richly carved and painted, but had no pleasing tone. She also spoke briefly on the Carillon bells.

The bells have been gifts from friends, especially young men in the U. S. service during World War II, and bells acquired by Mrs. Musgrave in her travel abroad the past summer, and travelling in the United States in the past.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Aaron were in charge of the social hour.

Replace Engine On Nixon Plane

MONROVIA, Liberia (UP) — A new engine was being flown in here today from Prestwick, Scotland, to replace a damaged engine in the plane carrying Vice President Richard M. Nixon on his three-week African tour.

Officials said barring any hitch Nixon would be able to take off on schedule for Entebbe, Uganda.

One of the engines on Nixon's big four-engine transport smoked heavily on landing in Liberia Thursday and officials decided to replace it rather than take a chance on repairs.

Nixon and his wife, Pat, toured the Prebomi Hills Friday, greeting natives and having their pictures taken with two grotesquely garbed "witch doctors" who danced for them.

Nixon still is fighting influenza and running a temperature but insists on continuing the tour, shaking hands and patting children on the head.

Question Odd Jobs Man in Boys' Slaying

WHAT A BIG BOOK!

Of course the Bible is big. Not only in size . . . but in the endless depth of the messages to man.

God never intended the Bible to be studied without help. When an Ethiopian official centuries ago wrestled with a passage from Isaiah, God sent the evangelist, Philip, to meet the man's chariot, climb aboard, and explain the text's reference to the crucifixion of Christ.

Explaining and applying God's Word are still two of the major aims of the Church. Every sermon, every lesson, every discussion topic your church offers is intended to focus your attention on the timeless truths of Scripture and help you thread them into the pattern of your life.

Cherish your Bible . . . read it regularly . . . and let your Church guide you to the richness of its message.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor in the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself which needs his moral and spiritual support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Unlimited Forgiveness

Matthew 18:21-35

GOLDEN TEXT: "Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I saith unto thee, Until seventy times; but, Until seventy times seven." (Matt. 18:21-22)

INTRODUCTION: "I would not forgive him if he came crawling on his knees begging." A woman has heard to say these very words recently. This is not the attitude of a true Christian. Forgiveness is at the very heart of Christianity.

God forgave you all the sins of all your life when he saved you, if you are a Christian. Remember, every one of your sins are against Him. Christ died on a cruel cross that your sins might be forgiven. The admonition of our Lord is that you have a forgiving spirit. You cannot really pray the Lord's Prayer, unless you are willing to "forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors."

FORGIVE—HOW MANY TIMES? (V. 21-22)

How many times are we to forgive a person? Once? Twice? How often? The Jews were willing to forgive once, but no more. Simon Peter was willing to go further. Let that be said to his credit. He suggested that to forgive a person seven times might be the Christian thing to do.

When Jesus said: "Seventy times seven," he meant that forgiveness is to be unlimited. Every Christian ought to take note of this.

II WHY FORGIVE (V. 23-34)
Friend, think of all that God has forgiven you. Think of all the sins and wrongs you have committed against Him. Now, when someone else has done a wrong against you, does it not seem small as compared to what you have done against God? He forgave you. Now, you forgive the one who has wronged you!

One of these days the day of Judgment is coming. You will be judged even as the man in this parable which Jesus told. In the light of that, do you not think it wise that you forgive others?

CONCLUSION (V. 35) My! how important it is that we have a forgiving spirit. Your home cannot exist without it. Your marriage will go on the rocks unless you are willing to forgive. A church cannot do its best work for Christ without a spirit of forgiveness. A revival meeting cannot come without a spirit of forgiveness.

That reminds me of a revival meeting I was asked to conduct one time. I preached my heart out every day and night for a week with no visible results. The reason came to light. Two families were angry with each other. They sat on opposite sides of the church. To make a long story short; when they forgave each other, a revival broke out, and thirty-eight souls were saved.

Remember, friend, a real Christian will forgive his fellowman.

SIU Country Column

By Albert Meyer

Raising calves to be good cows is important to the dairy farmer, but, unfortunately, this does not always occur. Feeding is a big factor as was brought out by dairy specialists who spoke to dairy farmers attending the second annual Dairy Workshop at Southern Illinois University February 26 and 28.

For example, Dr. K. A. Kendall, a University of Illinois dairy scientist, reported that nearly 20 percent (or more than four million) of the calves born this year in the United States will die from disease or other causes before they are two years old. About half of them may be counted as heifer calves from which the dairy herds of the future will come. It requires between four and one-half and five million replacements annually to take the place of cows that are culled from the herds for various reasons.

One of the reasons for the loss is failure to do a good job of feeding.

The first step in producing a healthy calf is good care and adequate feeding for the cow bearing the calf, especially during the last three or four months before calving. She needs all the good quality roughage—pasture and hay or silage—she will eat, supplemented by enough grain and minerals to take care of her milk production and the developing calf. The cow should be "dried off" during the last two months before calving so that she can prepare for the next lactation period which begins with the production of the vitamin-rich first milk, or colostrum, that is most important in giving the newborn calf a good start in life. A cow weighing 1400 pounds at peak production should get enough feed to build her weight up to 1600 or 1700 pounds by calving time. Calves from cows that are fed and managed thus will be healthy and of good size. Calves should be left with the mother cow for three days to nurse at will. The first milk is rich in vitamin A, antibodies, minerals, and protein which help protect the calf from disease.

Good feeding for the calf up to six months of age includes supplying whole milk for eight or ten weeks; starting with a small quantity of grain mixture or starter feed that has 18 or 19 percent protein at one or two weeks of age, and free feeding high quality le-

Farmers' Income Up During 1956

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's farmers did better last year than in 1955, and Illinois farmers enjoyed better than average incomes.

Illinois farms averaged net incomes of $3,917 for the year, compared with the national average of $2,415, and the 1955 state average of $2,821.

Missouri farms reported average net incomes of $2,045 for 1956, $289 over the 1955 figure but almost $400 under the national average.

Arizona led the nation with the highest average income of $11,892 per farm.

gume hay in a rack (not on the floor). A calf needs fresh water available at all times and should be protected from sudden changes in temperature.

It is after the calf has passed the milk and starter feeding stage that proper management practices may be neglected. Quite often farmers try to get by on pasture and cheap forage from then on until the heifers are nearing their first calving period. This "teenage" period is important in the heifer's development, too, according to Howard Olson, the SIU dairy specialist.

Pasture alone will not supply all the nutrients that growing heifers need. From about four to 10 months of age they need some good quality legume hay supplemented with a simple grain mixture that has about 15 percent total protein, and enough minerals, including steamed bonemeal and salt, so that they will grow well without over-fattening. The amount of concentrates will vary with the quality of the roughage. If it is only of fair grade, the heifers will need four to five pounds of concentrates daily to grow properly.

By 10 months of age the heifer's rumen (or paunch) has developed sufficiently so that more roughage can be handled. From then on not much grain concentrate is required if the pasture or hay is of high quality—containing much legumes. If the pasture gets mature, scant, or has a high percentage of grass in the forage, some additional feed in the form of hay, silage or concentrates will be necessary. As calving time nears, the supplemental grain feeding should be started to develop a good calf and keep the young cow growing to maturity.

See Little Change In Prices of Best Farms in 1957

Prices of Illinois farms with highly productive land will hold steady during 1957, Charles L. Stewart, University of Illinois land economist forecasts. But farms with medium to low crop yields will find their prices shading off by this time next year, Stewart predicts.

Two very bearish items in the land price picture are rising interest rates and taxes. Stewart believes that the upward push in interest rates isn't over yet. Taxes on Illinois farm real estate are among the highest in the midwest, he points out.

On the other hand, most farmers must still increase their acreage to reduce their costs per unit of product. This is because of high costs of machinery and labor which must be spread over larger production to keep unit costs down. As a result, land is being purchased to enlarge present farms.

Some other upward pressures on land prices which Stewart sees are toll roads in some local areas, high purchasing power from the cities and continued price supports.

It Pays to Repair Farm Machinery

Repainting farm machinery may seem like "frothing on the cake."

But unpainted machines can rust and go to pieces rapidly, says J. W. Matthews, assistant professor of farm shop at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture. This is particularly true of sheet metal and other thin metal parts.

Matthews points out that winter is a good time for repairing and repainting farm machinery if you have a heated shop on your farm.

You can clean all the grease, dirt and loose rust off your machines to get them ready for a repaint job when you check for needed repairs and adjustments. Use a putty knife and wire brush to get as much of the grime off dry as you can, or use a wire scratch wheel in an electric drill or flexible shaft unit.

Never use gasoline to clean grease and oil off machinery, Matthews says. Fire is too much of a hazard. Instead, get a special cleaning solvent from your tank truck driver that is safe to use. Use it later to clean your paint brushes.

A worth-while paint job needs two coats and two different kinds of paint. After you have thoroughly cleaned the machine and the solvent is dry, put on a coat of a good metal primer to cover all bare metal. Metallic zinc or red lead based paints are good.

Then finish the job with a coat of the manufacturer's implement enamel that you can get from your dealer. He can also furnish decals that will give a professional look to your finished job.

Items of Agricultural Interest

(A round-up of the week's work, activities, and observations at the University of Illinois Dixon Springs Experiment Station near Robbs in Southern Illinois, prepared by the Station's staff.)

We have set aside a 40-acre woodland on the Station as an area in which to demonstrate good woodland management. From this woods the angry buzz of a chain saw serves notice that Chuck Olson, forest researcher, and his aids, Lowell Ditterline and LaVerne Bailey, are making saw logs. We on the Station have come to expect this logging activity each winter. It is not a new activity, but was started in February 1951 and has been continued each year since.

Planned Cutting
The 40-acre woodland has been divided into four sections, with a different section to be cut over each year. The cutting is gauged so that the estimated annual growth of the entire woodland is logged from only one 10-acre section each year.

The logs that Olson and his crew are dragging out today are from some of the less desirable species and from some of the poorer quality trees. They will not make top lumber. The best trees have been left standing.

Don't Argue
Are these foresters getting the best return for their logging labor? Here's a tip—don't try to argue with the foresters on this point. They'll pull out records to show you that the logs coming off this year are better than those removed from the same tract four years ago. They'll drag you into the woods and show you tree by tree that the logs to come out four years from now will be still better. They call this type of logging improvement cutting, which is leaving the good-quality, faster growing trees for a later cut. This procedure, they say, will result not only in improved quality, but also increased growth rates.

Roots in Acre of Grass
A short time ago we wanted to illustrate the value of grass for soil improvement on our TV program. (This program may be seen every Friday at 5:30 p.m. over WSL-TV, Channel 22, Harrisburg. One way among several in which grass improves soil is by adding organic matter. But HOW MUCH organic matter may we expect it to add?)

George McKibben, crops and soils man, found the answer. In the file, preserved in the folder for Experiment I, was the information. Fescue root samplings had been dug, washed, oven-dried and then weighed. This grass, through its roots alone, had pushed 30 tons of organic matter into and through each acre of soil.

Lamb Crop
"Don't forget to mention," says Jack Lewis, assistant superintendent, "that the Station lambs are on a creep ration. These creeps are located in well-lighted sections of the sheds and filled with a mixture of three parts corn, three parts oats, two parts bran and two parts soybean oil meal."

Deadline March 15
For Accepting '56
Corn Loan Applications

Edgar V. Thompson, Saline County ASC office manager, stated today that March 15 is the deadline date for accepting corn loan applications for 1956 corn. This deadline date is made in advance so that the crib may be sealed, the sample graded and loan papers executed not later than March 29, 1957. Purchase agreements for corn may be signed through March 29, 1957.

More than half a million soil samples were tested during 1956 in the 83 county extension and 42 commercial soil laboratories in Illinois.

University of Illinois agronomists report that 1956 field tests of 37 hybrid and standard grain sorghum varieties showed the hybrids far superior.

Handle Livestock Safely

URBANA—Safe practices while handling livestock will prevent many injuries and deaths, says O. L. Hogsett, extension safety specialist at the University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Fewer horses and dairy bulls have helped to decrease livestock accidents. However, farm folk can help to reduce the toll still further by following these suggestions:

Don't surprise animals when approaching them.

Have cattle dehorned and boar's tusks cut short.

Keep small children away from pens and barns.

Take special care in handling animals with new-born young.

If there is a bull on the farm, keep him in a safe pen. Do not enter while he is loose. Remember, the gentle bull is like the unloaded shotgun: it's the one that gets you.

4-H News

The Chatterbox 4-H club met Wednesday evening at the home of the leader, Mrs. Leo Fowler. Ann Matthews demonstrated how to sew on buttons properly and Marilyn Bryant demonstrated how to press as you sew. Carolyn Vinson joined the club at this meeting.

The next meeting will be March 20 at 6 p. m. at the leader's home.

County IAA Insurance Agency Honored

The Saline county agency force was among those honored at the 29th annual Round-Up of IAA Insurance Service, Feb. 24-26, at the Edgewater Beach hotel in Chicago.

The agency was the top life volume producer in its district during a Round-Up special campaign. The agents and wives of Saline county agency were guests of Country Life Insurance company at a special luncheon in honor of their achievement.

Agency Manager James Henderson was also honored as the 1957 president of the Agency Managers club. Those attending the 29th annual Round-Up of IAA Insurance Service this year from Saline county were: Agency Manager James Henderson and his wife and Special Agent Lesley Starnes and his wife. Also attending were Farm Bureau President C. Ersel Vinyard and Insurance Secretary Mrs. Donna Lightfoot.

More than half a million soil samples were tested during 1956 in the 83 county extension and 42 commercial soil laboratories in Illinois.

SOMETHING TO BLEAT ABOUT—Maybe it's Mother Nature's idea of just kidding around, but Daisy, a nanny goat owned by Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Adams, of Midland, Tex., thinks she has been dirty-tricked. Nature provided her with only a two-facet "milk bar" and then gave her quadruplet kids. So every mealtime, there's a traffic jam like that pictured above. Cream of the jest is that this is Daisy's second quadruplet litter—considered a very rare occurrence in goatdom.

Grinding Roughage Not Recommended For Dairy Cattle

If you grind roughage for dairy cattle, it will pass through the digestive tract too rapidly for complete digestion, warns Leo Fryman, dairy extension specialist at the University of Illinois.

Some experiments have shown that digestibility of cellulose, which makes up most of the energy value of hay, was decreased by as much as 25 percent by grinding. In some cases the fat content of milk produced by cows on a ration of finely ground hay has also decreased.

Fryman says you're only fooling yourself if you think cows will do better when you grind your poor-quality roughage. They might eat more of the coarse part of it. But since the feeding value is low, production of the cows may be disappointing.

On the other hand, grinding grain for dairy cows will pay. Since cows do not chew their feed thoroughly, hard grains like corn, barley, and oats are swallowed whole. Unlike roughages grains are not regurgitated and rechewed. Unless they are ground, from 20 to 25 percent of the oats and 30 to 35 percent of the corn may be lost.

When feeding calves up to 6 to 8 months of age, Fryman points out, you do not need to grind either grain or hay. Up to this age, calves chew their feed quite thoroughly.

Fertilizers will revive worn-out soils, according to tests on the University of Illinois Morrow Plots.

Ag Dep't Says Best Insect Repellent on Market This Spring

WASHINGTON (AP)—Mosquitoes, ticks, chiggers, fleas and biting flies beware!

The Agriculture Department says the best all-purpose insect repellent ever developed will be on the market this spring.

Agricultural research scientists claim the new repellent can be safely applied to the skin or clothing.

The scientists said the repellent provides long-lasting protection for persons who work or play outdoors. Tests show it has a pleasant non-greasy "feel."

The active ingredient of the repellent is diethyl toluamide, an organic chemical. The formula for the repellent already has been acquired from the department by at least one commercial firm, S. C. Johnson & Son Inc., makers of Johnson's wax.

Rendleman to Study Changes in Traffic Law

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Southern Illinois University's legal counsel and assistant to the president, John Rendleman, has been given the job of organizing sweeping changes in the nation's traffic law enforcement and court procedures.

Working under a $10,000 grant from the American Bar Association and the Automobile Safety Foundation, Rendleman has started work on a project designed to "set up a uniform system of traffic court administration and improved enforcement procedures in every state."

Rendleman was picked up for the job by Chief Justice Arthur T. Vanderbilt of the New Jersey Supreme Court. The Conference of Chief Justices, of which Vanderbilt is chairman, worked with the 1951 Governor's Conference in laying out a 16-point program of resolutions for traffic law improvements. Rendleman's research appointment for one year officially puts machinery in motion to implement the changes.

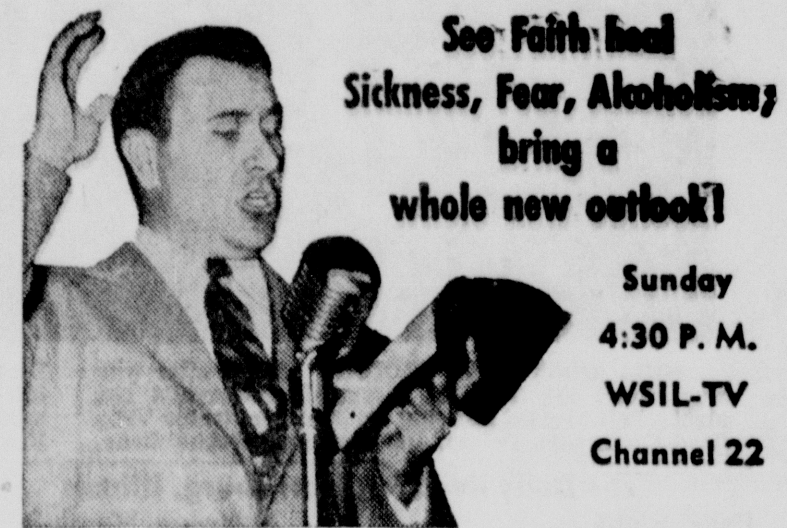

Included in the six-year-old table of resolutions are such items as the elimination of speed traps, uniform, non-fixable traffic tickets, the integration of the traffic court into the entire judicial system, thus eliminating the patchwork pattern of "J. P." and magistrate courts throughout the states, and a requirement that only lawyers may serve as traffic court judges.

Rendleman said a major portion of the grant will be used for travel while consulting judges, educators and legal and police officials.

AT THE ORPHEUM—Machiko Kyo and Glenn Ford in "The Teahouse of the August Moon," in CinemaScope and Color, which will be shown at the Orpheum Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Nip Great Carrier Mills Team, 51-50, for First Tourney Title since 1949

Locals Will Play West Frankfort in Sectional Wednesday

The Harrisburg Bull Dogs nipped a great Carrier Mills team, 51 to 50, in the finals of the Norris City basketball tournament and will meet West Frankfort in the sectional tournament at West Frankfort next week.

The Bull Dogs, behind 27 to 20 at halftime, shot an amazing 571 the last half to cop the contest with 40 seconds left when Bennie Fulkerson sent a jump shot through the hoop to make the count 51-50.

It was the eighth straight victory for Coach John Dotson's boys, three of them in the regional, and it gave the locals a mark of 12 wins and 15 losses so far this season.

Second Loss for Wildcats

It was only the second loss of the year for the Wildcats, who lost both to Harrisburg and to Carbondale Attacks by the identical score of 51 to 50.

At the West Frankfort sectional next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, Harrisburg is scheduled to meet the Red Birds, 91 to 48 winner over Benton last night in the Benton regional, in the Wednesday night contest. Mt. Vernon, 61-57 winner over Carmi at Carmi, and Brookport, 74-56 winner over Metropolis at Metropolis, will play the Thursday night contest and the finals will be Friday evening.

In winning last night, Harrisburg copied its first regional title since 1949, when the Bull Dogs beat Marion in the finals at Eldorado to enter the Mt. Vernon sectional. There they were defeated by Mt. Vernon, which went on to win the state championship.

Wildcats Lead at Half
Last night's championship affair was all Carrier Mills the first half when the Wildcats rolled up an 11-6 lead the first quarter as the Bull Dogs played in a slow deliberate fashion. They looked even better the second quarter as they outscored Harrisburg 16-14 to hold a 27-20 lead at intermission time. Most of the second period the Carrier Mills lead ranged from nine to 11 points.

At the outset of the third quarter the teams traded baskets for a while, then Harrisburg made six straight points to take the lead for the first time since the opening minutes. It came with four minutes and 20 seconds left in the period and the count was 34-33.

This lead was short-lived, however, because Carrier Mills put seven points into the net while Harrisburg was being held scoreless and the Wildcats were out in front by six points 40-34, and the quarter was rapidly coming to a close. But in a little over a minute Harrisburg counted twice and Carrier Mills once to give the Wildcats a 42-38 lead as the fourth quarter commenced.

Nip and Tuck Scoring
The Bull Dogs, a battling outfit all the way through the tourney, came back to tie the count at 44-

Byars Upsets Sugar Hart

NEW YORK — Walter Byars, the stubby Boston welterweight whose "basketball speed" achieved the year's biggest ring upset, said today, "I'll fight anybody who'll draw money, preferably the champion."
Mustachioed Walt, the ex-Marine who was a 6-1 underdog before he snapped the 12-straight winning streak of sensational Sugar Hart before 2,400 at Madison Square Garden Friday night, attributed the victory to his remarkable speed and turtle-shell attack.
"I got my speed and elusiveness while playing basketball at Brandeis High School against taller fellows," explained Mr. Upset. "And I figured out the turtle-shell offense on my own because I was always boxin' taller fellows while learning in the Marines."
Byars, weighing 144½ pounds to Hart's 145½, won the unanimous decision in lopsided fashion on a rounds basis: 6-2-2, 7-3 and 8-0-2. The United Press had Walt ahead, 6-4.
